A Step into History: Exploring The Rocks' Historic Landmarks

The Rocks is a treasure trove of historical landmarks, each with its own captivating story to tell. One of the neighborhood's most beloved landmarks is Cadman's Cottage. Built in 1816, this humble abode was the home of John Cadman, a former convict who became a respected boatbuilder.

As you wander through The Rocks, keep an eye out for other architectural gems. The Argyle Cut, a sandstone thoroughfare, was once a convict-built road that connected the city to the harbor. Today, it's a charming pedestrian walkway lined with shops and eateries.
